TALKING WELLNESS Mission Statement

Talking Wellness develops plans to improve the community's ability to safely talk about depression and to reduce stigma concerning depression and its treatment, while building new community strength and reducing environmental stressors that may increase depression.

RESEARCH

This is a community-university partnered participatory research project involving UCLA, RAND, and HAAF (Healthy African American Families).

We will evaluate some Public Service Announcements (PSAs) on men and depression for NIMH (the National Institutes of Mental Health).

- Kenneth Wells, MD, MPH—Principal Investigator—310-794-3725
- Bowen Chung, MD—Co-PI—310-794-3508
- Loretta Jones, MA—Co-PI— 323-292-2002

Disclaimer: Your participation is completely voluntary. You may attend the events without participating in the research.
